The RobinWood Deluxe Collection
 Designer Sarah has joined forces with David Sutherland to create a Robin Wood-inspired collection of outdoor furniture. With names such as Marion, Tate and Sparrow, the look and polished aluminum designs are a far cry from anything you'd likely find at Northrup's yard. Instead, the 20-piece RobinWood Deluxe Collection features what you'd expect from a collaboration between design stars, authentically inspired with an unexpected sense of innovation. To see more, go to www.robinwoodfurniture.com. David Sutherland also has a furniture showroom in the Dallas Design Center, 9025 N. Stemmons Freeway, Suite 340, 214-762-8501.

Pati-Oh! Furniture

We've come a long way from the webbed aluminum chair of our youth.
 BY WENDY KESSLER AND BUZZ MCGILAN

When you see a vintage folding patio chair in a tag sale recently, its wicker web design and chrome frame took us back to our youth, when we sat in the back yard watching the fireflies blink in theinky darkness of summer nights. The nylon webbing always left marks on the backs of our legs, part of the indelible legacy of carefree summers. Today, patio furniture is less about nostalgic trends you're a fan of the metal glider) and more about luxury and comfort. From teak to powder-coated metals to all-weather wicker, this stuff is meant to last. And no longer do consumers have to go without, as more manufacturers are offering contemporary designs. We've focused on a few choice pieces that show the range of patio furniture today.
