Majestic brings two authentic jackets from the field to your closet

Each Majestic garment carries itself with the same qualities as every major leaguer who's ever stolen home, thrown a 100 mph fastball, or batted in the winning run. Those qualities? Commitment. Tenacity. Persistence. And a love for baseball that's beyond question.

Whether you're wearing a replica jersey, a World Series T-shirt or the latest classic style, if it says Majestic, it says who you are. And just in time for Father's Day come two great new jackets from Majestic, just like the ones worn on the field by major league players and coaches, bringing true performance capability to on-field outerwear.

The new Authentic Collection Therma Base Premier jacket is a performance soft-shell jacket made from an all-in-one technical fabric that provides stretch, weather resistance and insulation for optimal function and comfort. Similar to the Premier jacket of the past two seasons it has traditional athletic styling such as the Olympic collar, color-blocked inserts and rib-banded cuffs and waistband. New front decoration on the Therma Base Premier is a high-quality flexible woven emblem, with the Majestic sleeve logo and center back neck silhouetted batter logo being rubberized.

The Premier jacket is windproof and waterproof, with moisture-wicking fabric and four-way stretch for maximum comfort.

For warmer weather, there's the Gamer. You may have noticed major leaguers looking better and feeling more comfortable this spring thanks to Majestic Athletic's new Cool Base Gamer jackets. Utilizing Majestic's Cool Base technology, the Gamer may be the most versatile jacket to make its way on-field.

The Cool Base Gamer was specifically designed with spring training in mind. The Gamer provides improved range of motion from the use of stretch fabrics, and superior insulation and wind protection for staying warm during morning stretches and when waiting for the batting cage. Cool Base technology provides enhanced breathability and moisture management as temperatures climb, and the Convertible Gamer offers extra versatility with removable sleeves for fielding drills and batting practice.

The Gamer is $59.99-$79.99, and the Premier is $119.99. They're available in stores or can be bought at mlbshop.com.

Look sharp! Majestic's Gamer (shown here) and Premier jackets are just like what the real major leaguers wear and feature Majestic's Cool Base and Therma Base fabrics

Under Armour shakes things up again by introducing three new training shoes

Under Armour continues to establish a new prototype for all athletes, and dad is no exception. No matter what he's training for, Under Armour now offers a training shoe that's perfectly suited for the job with the UA Proto line.

First, there's the UA Proto Power Trainer, designed for the ultimate power player. Train for devastating power in the shoe built to help athletes level the opposition. The UA Proto Power Trainer delivers a new dimension of stability, propulsion, and cushioning to your training program. It's designed to move vertically, and to cushion upward force and downward impact. The Power Trainer retails for $100.

The UA Proto Speed Trainer is made for the fastest player in the game. It has a linear focus and is designed for straight-ahead speed. Train for break-away speed in the shoe engineered specifically for the fastest players in the game. Solidify your footing, enhance your motion control, and ensure total comfort while you're training to burn your opponents. The Speed Trainer retails for $90.

The UA Proto Evade Trainer is ideal for the player who dominates with quick cuts and evasion. Train for fierce change of direction and agility in the shoe developed for athletes who win games with lateral supremacy.

The UA Proto Evade Trainer delivers a smooth lateral ride with the right cushioning placement so you can change direction faster and better than anyone else on the field. It is designed to move in a lateral direction and is perfect for side-to-side agility. The Evade Trainer retails for $80.

All three trainers are available now online at underarmour.com or at your local retailer.

Train your way! Under Armour's training shoes are suited to three distinct purposes; pick the one that's right for you

Nokona leather now lends its beauty to more than just baseball gloves

Nokona has gained worldwide acclaim for its amazing handcrafted gloves, and now dad can get the feel of classic Nokona leather even when he has to turn his attention away from baseball while traveling or doing business.
