

After Kids Go ‘Back-to-School’ Parents Go ‘Back-to-Sanity’

Top e-retailer CSNStores.com Rewards Moms and Dads for Surviving the Summer With New Home and Office Goods

Summer vacation can take a lot out of a parent. Days are packed with activities and nights can be just as busy. Kids tend to forget that mom and dad have other work to do, too, which adds to their stress levels and can turn a fun Summer Break into a Summer Breakdown.

“When a child has more free time, a parent’s responsibilities often double,” says CSN’s Family-Focused Blogger Chuck Casto. “Juggling play dates, different camps, birthday parties and babysitters, while also doing your full-time job, leaves many parents spent by September 1st.”

Because the summer can truly tax parents, Casto supports the idea of pampering yourself with a gift once school is back in session. ‘It’s great to spend so much time bonding with your kids, as that’s so important when they’re young,’ adds Casto. “But you do need to regroup and reward yourself with something special that makes your life easier in the fall.”

Based on recommendations from Casto and other parents, CSN’s Cyber Shopping specialists have assembled a short list of brand new home goods that are sure to spoil that hardworking, summer survivor.
