

Gift guide: Hosting gifts to help get the party started

by Kimberly L. Jackson/The Star-Ledger

Friday November 28, 2008, 3:11 PM

Most of us have at least one entertainer on our gift list. She's the one who always manages to create a bed-and-breakfast atmosphere while putting up as many out-of-town family members as possible over the holidays. He's the guy who habitually calls his buddies and the neighbors over to watch the game with burgers and beers.

The best gift for your favorite people-person might be one that helps make the most of those natural hosting abilities.

1. Cappuccino, anyone? If you've got an espresso machine and steamed milk, you can brew a cup. But the entertainer knows that freshly ground sprinkles of high-grade chocolate will make the drink a more impressive and satisfying experience. William Bounds chocolate mill is $34.99 at cookware.com or (888) 478-4606.

1. Chocolate mill