faking architecture with furniture

To make the smallish bedroom appear stately, Turner invested in a dramatic replica of an antique English canopy bed. "I'm always drawn to ebonized wood," he says. "It looks so clean." Navy cotton drapes backed in white corduroy foster a cocoonlike feel, while the frame's simplicity allows for embellishment—a trio of Turkish lanterns. A Napoleon III settee and a pair of Chinese garden stools turn the foot of the bed into a reading nook.
