

Have you ever thought that pets are better at expressing love than some of your exes? Well, you're not alone. At times, our feline and canine friends seem more reliable, relaxed, and even cuter than those people who didn't turn out to be "the one."

It certainly helps explain why cats have become the most commonly owned pet -- over 88 million -- in the U.S. today. In fact, they're so popular that 55 percent of cat owners have more than one. And dogs aren't far behind.

"Considering how much they add to the family institution, it's really amazing that so many of us don't recognize them on Valentine's Day," said Lindsay Allsop, CSN Stores' Feline Furniture Expert. "Pets define unconditional love, and really give us something to look forward to at the end of the day."

Allsop and other "Pet Parents" at CSN Stores, a Top 3 e-retailer of home goods, have banded together to make sure pets get the love they deserve this Valentine's Day. This unique list of presents is purrrfect for even the most discriminating cat or canine, and designed to fit any budget. Chances are good that your pet is going to appreciate them far more than your ex ever did...
