

Valentine's Day shouldn't be about reservations, waiting in line, or loud restaurants. This love-focused holiday should be about intimate settings, home-cooked meals, or even re-heating a romance. And you don't have to be a champion chef. You just need the right ingredients, mixed with some inner passion to create your own amorous recipe.

That's why this year, gift experts at Cookware.com and CSNStores.com, are serving up several new items, from the traditional to the trendy, to help make a lasting impression in the comfort of your own home:
